

MYSTERY OF MORA STILL UNSOLVED

Belief Grows That Petersburg Musician Was Not Killed in Accident.

INVESTIGATION CONTINUES

Incidents Come to Light Which Make His Disappearance More Puzzling.

Times-Dispatch Bureau, 5 Bollingbrook Street, (Telephone 1155) Petersburg, Va., October 23.

It is believed that the mystery surrounding the reported death or disappearance of Professor Carlo Mora, organist and choir director of High Street M. E. Church in this city, and a very accomplished musician, will soon be solved. No definite information has been received to-day, but steps have been taken from a personal investigation in Washington and Baltimore which may result in something definite. As has been stated in The Times-Dispatch, Professor Mora left Petersburg Thursday, ostensibly to visit his brother, Dr. Paulo Mora, in or near Washington. On Saturday night a telegram purporting to be signed by Dr. Paulo Mora, sent from Baltimore, was received by the Rev. Atwell, D. D., pastor of High Street church, stating that Carlo Mora was injured in an automobile accident near Laurel, Md. Friday afternoon, had died Saturday morning in a hospital in Baltimore, the body shipped to New York for cremation, and that the burial would be in St. Albans, Vt. Sunday afternoon.

In response to a telegram asking for information, Chief of Police Raganland this afternoon received the following from Marshal T. F. Farrin, of Baltimore:

"Unable to ascertain anything about Carlo Mora being killed in automobile accident. There is no record of his death at any hospital here. If you will forward exact copy of the telegram received by Rev. Atwell, D. D., we may be able to obtain definite information. State what telephone company, and the name of the Marshal.

The copy and information asked for will be sent.

The Rev. Geo. C. Ziegler, pastor of the Christian Church in this city, of which Professor Mora was at one time the organist, and a friend of Mora, left this afternoon for Washington, to make personal investigation of the reported death of the organist, and to satisfy himself and other friends of the fate of the unfortunate man. No one believes him to be dead or to have met with an automobile accident. They do believe the story to have been concocted to cover his disappearance, and yet they cannot account for it. All the same, much sympathy is felt for him by his friends. The belief is that "Dr. Paulo Mora" is a myth. Nothing is known of him in Washington.

A piece of curious information, which came to light some time ago, but to which no importance was attached at the time, was revived to-day. A woman visiting here from Washington, while on the street one day had Professor Mora pointed out to her as "the distinguished organist of High Street Church." She at once identified Mora as "Professor Chase," organist of a Christian Church in Washington, where she sang in the choir with him for two years. Her identification was positive. This phase of the matter will be investigated by the Rev. Mr. Ziegler, who has the address in Washington of the woman in question. Mr.

A Lady's Comment On Medicine and Religion

The following letter is from a lady whose name I am not at liberty to use. If I should mention her name she would be known by almost every reader. She writes in part:

"Your article entitled 'Medicine and Religion' has been read and re-read by me many times. It seems to me that the article contains the substance of all that has been said about Christian Science, new thought, suggestive therapeutics and other forms of mental healing.

"I am very much pleased to observe that you are putting out into the world such useful literature. It will do untold good, without doubt; not only for those who take medicine, but for those who try to get along without taking medicine. Your article is terse, to the point, and will be read by thousands.

"Medicine and religion have always been very closely associated. Only in very recent years have the two been regarded as separate professions. I am glad you brought this out so clearly. The tendency of to-day is strongly in the direction of medicine and religion coming back together again. With your immense facilities for spreading useful information I am sure you will greatly assist the progress of the times in sending out broadcast such articles. I want you to know that your efforts are appreciated.

"As to Peruna, I have nothing to say. I very seldom make use of any medicine. But I assure you that your article has so enthused me with the good advice it contains that if I have any need for medicine I shall certainly buy a bottle of Peruna. I shall not neglect to recommend it to others also."

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Many persons inquire for The Old-time Peruna. They want the Peruna that their Fathers and Mothers used to take. The old Peruna is now called Katana. If your dealer does not keep it for sale write the Katana Company, Columbus, Ohio, and they will tell you all about it. Advertisement.

Ziegler also carried with him a small photograph of Mora. When he came to Petersburg, said that he had resided in Elmira, N. Y., had played the organ in a church there, and recently resigned here to go back to that city. Information from Elmira is to the effect that he is not known there, and never an organist there, and is not under engagement to return there.

Art of Vandalism.—Last Friday night after the close of the Southside Fair in this city some person unknown cut and slashed an oil painting of Port Arthur belonging to the National Fireworks Company, of this city, which was used in connection with the company's nightly display of fireworks. The painting was 120 feet long by 8 feet wide and was in sections and was greatly damaged by the knife of the vandal. The company is offering a large reward for the arrest of the perpetrator of the outrage.

Death of Mrs. Walker.—Mrs. Bernice B. wife of Bobbie R. Walker, died this morning shortly after 10 o'clock at her residence on McKenzie Street after ill health lasting through eight months. She was only twenty-one years old, and besides her husband, is survived by a son fourteen months old and a brother, Hugh A. Andrews, of Matocosa. She was formerly Miss Bernice Andrews, of Matocosa. The funeral will be from the residence Friday afternoon, and the burial will be in Blandford Cemetery.

Married in Suffolk.—This afternoon at 6:30 o'clock, in the Main Street Methodist Episcopal Church in Suffolk, Frank May Hobbs, of this city, and Miss Annie Louise Twitty, daughter of Mrs. James Fitts Twitty, of Suffolk, were married. Mr. Hobbs is a very popular and successful young business man, with a host of friends in Petersburg.

For the Best of War.—James B. Sifacusa, a former Greek resident of Petersburg, but more recently of Danville, was in the city to-day bidding good-by to his friends. He left for New York to-night, whence he will sail for Greece to fight for the fatherland. He will be joined in New York by twelve of his countrymen from Danville and twenty-five from Petersburg. On the steamship on which he sails will be 2,000 fellow-Greeks hurrying home to join the army.

Annual Meeting of Civic League.—The annual meeting of the Civic League of Petersburg was held evening before last, and the following officers were elected: president, Mrs. J. W. Hays; vice-president, Mrs. W. L. Watkins; recording secretary, Mrs. Wm. Nuffer; corresponding secretary, Miss F. H. Laiton; treasurer, Mrs. W. W. Hines.

Reports of the treasurer, showing expenditures during the past year, and of the president and secretary, showing the work accomplished, were read and approved. Work has been done along every line of improvement, and whatever has been undertaken has been accomplished.

The sanitary condition of the city has been improved and the rate of mortality reduced. Largely through the efforts of the league, the Council has ordered the installation of a crematory; regular and general clean-up days have been instituted, and the good generally has been accomplished. The league will continue its work with vigor for the betterment of the community along all lines.

For Courthouse Removal.—A delegation of Ettrick citizens will go to Chester to-morrow night to attend a meeting designed to renew the movement, and push it, for the removal of Chesterfield courthouse from its present site to Chester. The people of this section of the county feel that the courthouse, on the ground that Chester is easier of access by the great body of the people who have business at the courthouse. A strenuous effort is to be made to bring the question to a vote of the people.

School Fair Postponed.—On account of the completion of the new high school building at Prince George Courthouse, in which it is to be held, the Prince George School Fair has been postponed from November 2 to November 15. The fair promises to be a very attractive and successful one.

Big Gathering of Woodmen.—There was a large gathering of Woodmen of the World, of this city and of Ettrick, in Odd Fellow's Hall last night, to greet the National Lecturer, the Rev. George H. Schiek, D. D., of Omaha, Neb. A great many visitors of both sexes were present also. The meeting was presided over by Jas. W. Gentry, of Richmond, head clerk of the Virginia division.

Dr. Schiek admirably illustrated the teachings and workings of the order, which he held up as an auxiliary of the church. A national home for the orphan and aged people of the order is soon to be erected, and the speaker promised his best efforts to have it located in Virginia.

Prince George Democratic Club.—A meeting of the Democrats of Prince George County has been called to be held Friday evening, the 25th, at 6:30 o'clock, at Disputants, for purpose of organizing a Wilson, Marshall and Watson campaign club.

Death at Waverly.—J. B. Hancock, a highly respected citizen and business man of Waverly, died last night in his home in that town after an illness of several months. He was fifty-one years old, and for more than thirty years had been closely identified with the business interests of Waverly. He is survived by three brothers and one sister.

Catholic Mission.—The Rev. Fathers Turner and Jones, Redemptorist priests, will begin a mission at St. Joseph's Catholic Church next Sunday, to be conducted through the week. The mission will be for the spiritual benefit of Catholics, though the general public will be welcomed to the services.

PUBLIC WILL SEE COLLEGE AT WORK

Unique Demonstration Being Planned for Contributors to Rebuilding Fund.

CLASSES GOING AT NIGHT

Opportunity to Judge What Modern Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Education Means.

In recognition of the generosity of the public which contributed so materially to its restoration after the midwinter fire of nearly three years ago, the University College of Medicine of this city, is planning a decidedly unique demonstration designated under the modest title of "formal opening" and dated for Monday evening, of next week.

Feeling that the patrons of the school, which is now in a sense the property of a dividendless joint stock company, comprising the whole community, would appreciate an opportunity to see for themselves the uses to which their money has been put, the faculty and trustees have determined to place the entire plant in operation for one night, and to show their friends what modern medical education really means. Invitations are now being issued in the form of a handsomely engraved and decorated card bearing a miniature photograph of the monument to Hunter McGuire, on one side of which is a picture of the old structure in which the great surgeon founded the institution twenty years ago, and on the other side a view of the splendid new building, over which his son presides to-day. The cards, which are also in the nature of an acknowledgment of assistance and interest, are being sent chiefly to those who contributed to the rebuilding fund, and to the city and prominent local educators will be the special guests of the faculty. A committee of ladies, under the direction of Mrs. J. Allison Hodges, will act as the receiving party assisted by the trustees, of whom Judge George L. Christian is chairman. Admission will be by ticket only.

Novel Spectacle.—The spectacle presented by the college in full blast at night, with the public as onlookers, will be something novel and instructive to those interested in the processes by which men are trained for the work of caring for the sick.

The ordinary layman has little or no conception of the immense amount of detail connected with the medical curriculum, or of the laborious months of preparation, and the student before the latter is allowed to go forth with the seal of the college empowered to deal with the lives of human beings.

The "formal opening" will offer an excellent opportunity to become better acquainted with this work. All departments will be running just as if it were a regular college day. Lecturers will be talking, clinics going, stenographers and clerks at their tasks. Every laboratory in the building will be open with students therein busily engaged with microscopic, histological and electrical devices, or drugs as the case may be.

In the dissecting hall classes will be disposing of cadavers just as they do every day during regulation hours. In the big dispensary, where thousands of the city's poor are yearly treated and furnished with medicines free of cost, the visitors will see at first hand a work that is growing by leaps and bounds, and becoming an important factor in the community.

Pharmacy students will be filling prescriptions, and the dental infirmary and the dental laboratories will all be in operation. Every member of the faculty will be present at his post.

In the small private laboratories reserved for members of the teaching staff special technical demonstrations will be given for the benefit of visitors. In seeing some of the latest work in medical research. All the other laboratories and class-rooms will be freely open to the public, who will be cordially invited to make personal inspection of everything in the place, and if they desire it, to examine specimens under the microscope, or otherwise interest themselves in any part of the equipment that may attract them. Members of the faculty will be on hand to answer questions and make such explanations as may be necessary. A corps of students will also be assigned to the task of guiding the visitors through the building.

Some of the departments will issue novel souvenirs illustrating their special work. No effort whatever will be made to do either more or less than is usual in any branch, the object of the whole demonstration being to exhibit what is actually done in the college from day to day throughout the year. There will be no special flourishes arranged for the occasion, and the students will be as industrious at work as if their graduation depended on the night's labors.

Reading Account.—Since the rebuilding of the University College from a fund largely contributed by the people of Richmond the institution has become more than ever a special care and pride of the city. By means of this interest and generosity the faculty and trustees have placed the college at the head of all Southern medical schools and have won the attention and respect of the great educational centers of the North and West. As custodians of what is in fact a property of the community, they are seeking by means of the "formal opening" to render an account of their stewardship and to let the public judge for themselves whether or not they have wisely executed the trust. With its new buildings, new equipment and enlarged faculty, the University College of Medicine to-day declares that it can furnish man for man, medical training equal to that which may be obtained at any school in the country. On Monday evening it will undertake to prove the truth of this assertion.
